A conference delegate gives a short testimonial on Paul Matthews as a speaker.

The testimonial is from a senior L&D person with a global role in a very large company who attended a conference session run by Paul at the ELearning Fusion conference in Poland in 2019.

TRANSCRIPT

I attended a presentation by Paul in Poland on the topic of learning transfer, which is a really important topic in our field, because after all, as learning professionals in the workplace, that's what we're there for. We need to maximize learning transfer to help people get better at their jobs.

Paul was able to really explain that well and to use a real life example, so that people could connect to it, as well as help them walk away with ideas around what they could do themselves to improve learning transfer in their organizations.
