TRANSCRIPT

Paul Matthews is an excellent presenter. I've watched him speak at conferences and workshops for many, many years.

What's important is not that he's engaging, some would say he's even quite funny, but that his content is excellent. It's based on his research. It's based on a lot of deep thought, and therefore what he shares is not only valuable, but extremely useful, practical, helpful, helps people get on with building better learning, and building better learning and development.

I can recommend him very, very highly.
